

Hollywood

2007

From the Desk of the City Manager

After an extensive application process and three-day competition in Anaheim, California, the National Civic League (NCL) chose the City of Hollywood, Florida as a 2007 All-America City. The City of Hollywood is one of 10 award winning cities selected by a jury of business, government, philanthropic, and nonprofit leaders from across the country. The award came after three days of presentations in which Hollywood City leaders detailed how the City is addressing a wide range of social and economic issues, including early childhood education, affordable housing and community involvement. This award is a testament to the commitment to excellence of the City's 1,700 full and part-time employees and the culmination of a Citywide master planning initiative adopted in 2000 and shows the City is setting the standard when it comes to our economic development programs and housing initiatives.
